ABOUT SAN BUENAVENTURA TRACT

The San Buenaventura Tract is a historic neighborhood in Ventura, CA. A dedicated nonprofit organization has been formed to preserve and protect the historic character of this unique community. The nonprofit is working to secure a California Historic District designation, which would help protect the neighborhood's architectural heritage, increase property values, and make residents eligible for historic preservation tax incentives. The organization is led by volunteers who are passionate about their community and committed to its long-term preservation.

WHY YOUR PARTICIPATION MATTERS

To achieve California Historic District designation for the San Buenaventura Tract neighborhood, at least 51% of property owners in the tract must sign a participation petition. This block party is a key opportunity to meet neighbors, learn about the historic district effort, and sign the petition. Every signature counts — without 51% participation, the designation cannot move forward. Come out, get informed, and make your voice heard!

UNDERSTANDING THE WRIT OF MANDATE aka the Lawsuit

A Writ of Mandate is a court order that compels a government agency to perform a legal duty it has refused to carry out. The San Buenaventura Tract nonprofit has pursued a Writ of Mandate to require the City of Ventura to correct its illegal approval of Thompson Court Apartments (PROJ-25-0780). This legal action ensures that the community's rights are upheld and is followed as required by California law. The block party is part of the broader effort to demonstrate strong community support for this initiative and the historic designation process.
